Cara M. Christ, MD, MS.

Director, Arizona Department of Health Services

The Arizona Department of Health Services is responsible for leading Arizona's public health system including responding to disease outbreaks, licensing health and childcare facilities, operating the Arizona State Hospital, and improving the overall health and wellness of all Arizonans. Dr. Christ led Arizona's successful responses to the 2009 H1N1 Pandemic Influenza, 2014 West Africa Ebola Outbreak, 2015 Measles Outbreak, and is currently leading the state's Zika response. During these responses, Dr. Christ coordinated Arizona's surveillance, implemented public health interventions, recruited and supported hospitals for certification as "Infectious Disease Treatment Centers of Excellence," and coordinated communications. She oversaw the development and implementation of 20 articles of rules, allowing for integration of behavioral and physical health while streamlining and decreasing regulatory burden for Arizona's health care institutions. Dr. Christ provides leadership and public health expertise for the Arizona State Health Improvement Plan, and one of her priorities is to improve population health by implementing strategies that address the leading public health priorities.

Before her appointment as Director in May 2015, Dr. Christ's roles with ADHS included working as an Infectious Disease Epidemiologist, State Tuberculosis Control Officer, Bureau Chief for the Bureau of Epidemiology and Disease Control, and leading the Division of Licensing Services. Most recently, Dr. Christ was Deputy Director for Public Health Services and the department's Chief Medical Officer. Dr. Christ earned a Bachelor and Master of Science in Microbiology from Arizona State University. She earned her Doctor of Medicine from the University of Arizona, College of Medicine at the Tucson Campus.
